

Payment Architecture

The Payment API is responsible for processing payment requests. It validates each request, reserves funds, and writes an entry to the ledger before acknowledging the caller.

Dependencies

The Payment API depends on Redis for caching and on PostgreSQL for persistent storage. The Payments Team owns the service.